Medicine Man

It took a girl in hospital white to convince Dr. Welton Granger that an operating room is more than a theatre

By GEORGE EDWARD
ALLEN

THE FIRST of the opening scenes of a great New York theatre took place in an operating room. The scene was a beautiful one, like the opening scene of a masterpiece. It was a scene that would have been the first scene of a masterpiece.

The scene was a beautiful one, like the opening scene of a masterpiece. It was a scene that would have been the first scene of a masterpiece. The scene was a beautiful one, like the opening scene of a masterpiece.

"That" was the first scene of a masterpiece. It was a beautiful one, like the opening scene of a masterpiece.

The scene was a beautiful one, like the opening scene of a masterpiece. It was a scene that would have been the first scene of a masterpiece. The scene was a

What I suppose is that he was somebody.
There's little enough of it around the theatre
light."

"How are you getting on with the housework, Louis?"

Read a wife's own story of her husband's big cleaning discovery

Readers, I'm supposed to be a husband who is a master in housekeeping. But I'm not. I'm supposed to be a husband who is a master in housekeeping. But I'm not. I'm supposed to be a husband who is a master in housekeeping. But I'm not.

WASHING THINGS WASN'T MY FAVORITE JOB. But it was a chore that I had to do. I had to do it every day. I had to do it every day. I had to do it every day.
